

POMMERSCHE DANZ GRUPPE (Pomeranian Dancers)

This group is offering its public some specialty that sets it apart from other groups. The POMMERSCHE DANZ GRUPPE provides a powerful calling card among German-oriented communities around their home area of Wausau, WI.

The POMMERSCHE DANZ GRUPPE have found themselves in increasing demand in many communities of Wisconsin who require the lusty, exuberant Pomeranian German style as an essential ingredient for their festivals, parades, parties and special events. They participated in the German-American Von Steuben Parade in New York City and were featured for their performance in Central Park. Shortly thereafter, the dance group was called to Philadelphia, PA for recognition and performances.

The dancers perform German folk dances from their native homeland, a German province named Pomerania that was absorbed into Poland in 1945 at the end of WWII. The dancers' love of music and culture, plus their enthusiasm, and encouragement from their audiences, has continued to make them a popular and unique group.

The brilliant colors of their authentic costumes, the Jamunder Tracht, catch your eye as they perform such numbers as the Putt Yenter and Sauerlander Quadrille. They perform both couple and group dances in a very varied program. Of particular interest is the Wadmäl - an interpretative dance of a weaving loom. Wherever they appear, their musical performance strikes up a happy feeling with all people – Gemütlichkeit!
